Ho! Mesmerized by the sheer variety of appearances, which are like the illusory reflections of the moon in water, beings wander endlessly astray in samsara's vicious cycle.

In order that they may find comfort and ease in the luminosity and all-pervading space of the true nature of their minds, I generate the immeasurable love, compassion, joy and equanimity of the awakened mind, the heart of bodhicitta.

4 BODHI VOWS

Sentient beings are numberless, I train in order to free them

Delusions are inexhaustible I train in order to transform them

Reality is boundless I train in order to realize it

The awakened way is unsurpassable, I train in order to embody it

THREE KAYA TROMA MEDITATION

Uncontrived self-reflexive wisdom awareness arises in the form of the one mother, Tröma Nagmo. In my heart, red Vajrayogini in dancing posture with the hook knife.

In her heart, white Prajnaparamita in meditation posture.

In her heart the blue HUNG syllable radiating light rays out.

All the power, blessings, strength, and ability of the buddhas, from their wisdom body, speech, mind, qualities, and activity, gather in the form of a mass of light and infuse into me.

Then light radiates out and all sentient beings' negativities, obscurations, suffering, habitual patterns are purified. Their impure appearances are suddenly destroyed.

They mingle indivisibly with the three-kaya dakinis' wisdom expanse.

All samsara and nirvana merge into the limitless sphere of great bliss and emptiness.

All appearances become the celestial palace of the Unsurpassed Absolute Reality.

All of existence becomes the nature of the Black Vajrayogini Tröma Nagmo.

All sounds are the mantra's sound, like bees whose nest has been broken.

All of appearance and existence moves and vibrates with her wisdom.

COLOPHON

This is a condensed version of the Rinchen Trengwa Chod by Ranjung Dorje was translated by Pema Khandro for the Chod Retreat with Gyaldak Rinpoche and Pema Khandro that took place on Guru Rinpoche Day in the eight solar month of the water snake year, 2013. The text was composed by Pema Khandro by relying on the Tibetan text of the Rinchen Trengwa Chod as well as an English translation from Tashi T. Jamyaling. When Gyaldak Rinpoche offered to give this practice to the North American Ngakpa community, I, Pema Khandro, considered how my students could practice such an extensive collection. So, after an auspicious dream of finding this text inside a small box inside a rock, this condensed form of the text was composed for my students whose longing to practice the Rinchen Trengwa Chod is great, but whose time in life is too short to practice the extensive version. So that such sincere Buddhists may learn the essential heart meaning of the Rinchen Trengwa, so that they have a gateway to train in its extensive practices over time, this condensed liturgy was composed. If there are any errors, they are entirely mine. May they be purified by the power of the lineage. May any errors be corrected by the unceasing rays of ceaselessly communicative wisdom luminosity. May there be many yogis who carry the precious garland lineage into the future. Like a rising sun may it illuminate the darkness and unleash the vivid luminosity of being. May the suffering of beings be eliminated and may the intrinsic beauty of Buddhahood be disinhibited to shine out from us as we rest in ease, love with courage. May attend to presence with acute clarity. This text was printed again with photos as a textbook for the Vajrayogini Retreat in May 2020, upon the consecration of Dakini Mountain. The text was corrected for typos and typesetting errors every year thereafter.
